

What do I want to learn or understand better?

I still want to become more familiar with working using Scrum. This week we used planning poker to judge the scope of our user stories, something that shed a lot of light on the ambiguity of many of our user stories. However, although our user stories are now a lot clearer and more precise, I feel they are still much too horizontal. Consequently, I hope that we will better understand how to produce “vertical cake slices” for the next sprint.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

I organised our planning poker session and am looking forward to now helping my team create more vertical user stories.

What is my contribution towards the team’s use of Scrum?

Once again, I organised our planning poker session and made sure every task for this sprint received a fair amount of story points.

What is my contribution towards the team’s deliveries?

I have started work on our final report and implemented a booking-sharing feature in our application. Also, I assisted in writing the team reflection due this sprint and wrote installation instructions in the ReadMe in our main repository.
